2010	Wednesday, June 02, 2010 10:00:00 AM	Graduation	My graduation took place on June 2, 2010. The ceremony lasted all morning. When it was done, they released doves. Each dove represented a graduating student. I knew I would miss my friends very much.
2020	Friday, June 12, 2020 11:30:00 AM	Law School Graduation	My law school graduation was on a beautiful summer day on June 12, 2020. I was very grateful to finally be graduating from law school. The reason being that I had spent two years in the peace corps after completing my pre-graduate degree. I had been waiting a long time to study law, just like my father had done. I knew I could make him proud. I was hoping that in ten years I'd be working at a successful law firm in Washington DC.
2030	Thursday, November 07, 2030 8:30:00 AM	First Big Case	I had struggled to find any work for many years after I had moved to the nation's capital. Then in working as public defense attorney, I came upon the break of a lifetime. The famous pop boy band member, Jonny, was charged with murdering his 7th wife. He was facing the death penalty and seemed to have no hope in winning the case. I, however, despite the prosecutors' evidence and proving Jonny innocent. He was free to go and it was all because of me.
2040	Tuesday, September 04, 2040 12:00:00 PM	Hitting the Jackpot	There was a tragic accident with my former client, Jonny. He was free diving with his 9th wife. He hadn't been paying attention to her for the past few hours, so his court case 10 years earlier, he had added me to his will. He thought that I was the only reason he was alive as long as he had, so he left his fortune to me; a billion of it.
2050	Saturday, October 29, 2050 5:00:00 PM	Going Bankrupt	For ten years I spent my money on plastic surgery and botox. All I cared about was restoring my former youthful beauty. I, however, did not give so much attention to my finances. I was so broke that eventually my once daily shots of botox turned into bi-yearly appointments. Turns out beauty does have a price - a ridiculously high one!
2060	Thursday, June 03, 2060 10:30:00 AM	Marrying into the Mafia	For ten years I lived in such terrible poverty that I had resort to shopping at... WALMART! Oh the horror! I had been working at McDonalds for the past 3 years and had noticed a particularly large regular that was constantly hitting on me. He would use such lines as "Would you like some fries with that bun?" Although at first I was utterly disgusted, I later learned that he was one of the richest Mafia leaders in the city! I could just hear the boss calling my name. So one day after ordering a Big Mac, and a drink, I asked to meet him. He accepted, but only after I gave him his food.
2070	Friday, February 14, 2070 8:30:00 AM	He Cheats - Leave	It was Valentine's day and I was waiting patiently at home for my husband of almost 10 years. I had prepared the favorite, and what he called, "most romantic meal for him - an assortment of KFC, Wendy's, and Burger King. Then all of a sudden I realized that I had forgotten the food he eats every day - McDonalds! As I was standing in line hoping to get home before my darling husband arrived, I looked to the booth in the far corner. Sitting there was my husband and some 20 year old bimbo feeding him french fries! ran over, poured milkshakes on his head and left him... for good.
2080	Friday, March 22, 2080 3:00:00 PM	On the Run	It is always very difficult for a woman to leave her husband. I, however, did not have any man as a husband. I had a Mafia leader. He sent countless men after me. Every day was a battle for me as I had to constantly engage myself and I could never trust a single person for any of them could be the goon of my disfigured fat former Mafia husband.
2090	Monday, July 24, 2090 5:00:00 PM	Sitting Down in Seattle	I had spent 20 years running from the Mafia. I was sick and tired of always being afraid. I found a quaint apartment in Seattle, Washington. The rent was very low because there was always a tenant living there, so I was going to have a roommate! It was going to be like reliving my college days all over again, and who WOULDN'T want that?! I was so excited!
2110	Tuesday, August 05, 2110 1:30:00 PM	The End!	Ten years early I had moved out of my perfect Seattle apartment to New Hampshire (the farthest place from the state of Washington I could get). It turns out that during the course of my stay with Nia, she fell in love with me. I, however, did not return the feeling. It was a nice manure for I knew it would be the perfect thing: day of my 18th birthday, so I decided to treat myself! to relax me. In the middle of my appointment, my former roommate Nia! She had been hunting me down for 20 years. Her obsession and hatred for me only grew with each passing day. Then, all of a sudden she grabbed the nail dipper off the table and jabbed it my throat. I bled to death in the middle of a nail salon. On the bright side, I was more relaxed than I had ever been in my life!
